

From the founder of Mojo and the creator of the total festival concept

Now in Delft:

The HIDDEN HOUSE of MADAME DE BERRY

where time ceases to exist

where coincidence welcomes you where one can dream, one must dream dark and bitter, sweet and glitter!

In this futuristic fairy tale written by Berry Visser, groups of four visitors per show travel through the hidden house of Madame de Berry. Guides make sure they do not get lost in the labyrinth of space and time controlled by an atomic clock.

Madame de Berry lives in her dream palace where she tries to escape reality and the passing of time. In her eclectic world filled with wonderful characters, she seamlessly interweaves reality and theatrical fantasy. In a reflective and humorous manner, she observes the beauty and tragedy of our existence.

At the speed of light and a pair of headphones on, you travel into the infinite universe.

One moment you are sitting next to eleven pink flamingos, sergeant Pepper, the Baron Munchausen and Stolichnaya: the next moment you are face to face with Coincidence and wonder about the secret of life.

Have you ended up in a parallel world? No, you have entered the dream world of Madame de Berry, in her house hidden behind a gate on a picturesque canal in Delft.

Join in Madame's fantasy theory about traveling in time, souls, coincidence, and serendipity.

Madame de Berry is the woman behind Berry Visser

Madame inspired Berry to decorate his centuries-old warehouse in Delft. His alter ego has quite a theatrical and eccentric style.

The building is a composition full of colour, fuzzy fabrics, dolls, clocks, and paintings. Each room has its own specific colour - the blue salon, the black lounge, the orange chamber, the chocolatey room. It is a wonderful universe created by Berry Visser in the centre of Delft. He crafted a magical world that cannot easily be described. Golden sculptures, exuberant lamps, flowers, dozens of chairs, decorations, fuzzy wallpaper, and especially lots of colour. The lighting design of the rooms took two years to develop and build. Enter the dream world of an imaginative man.

Berry is the founder of Mojo Concerts and one of the organisers of the legendary Kralingse Pop Festival, Holland Pop, Pandora's Music Box, and Ein Abend in Wien.

He founded Mojo, and at the age of 22 he organized the legendary Holland Pop with The Byrds and Pink Floyd and can rightfully be called the creator of the total festival.

His idea of the 'total experience' is now the standard at many festivals where various disciplines mix and much attention is paid to the staging and acts.

With Mojo Concerts, he arranged for various world-famous stars such as Bob Dylan, Eric Clapton, and Led Zeppelin to perform in the Netherlands for the first time. He is also the creator of Lowlands.

Later Berry Visser focussed more on his creative side and amazed Delft with the unforgettable 'Baby Blue' show. Ten years ago, he started organising shows as Madame de Berry from his own impressive house. With much attention to detail and without a specific end goal in mind, he spent a decade transforming the property into a home theatre with a quirky atmosphere. Berry Visser considers this exceptional location and collection as a 'gesammt work of art'.
